FANATICS FIGHT OFFICERS.

In the shadow of the Kansas City, Mo., city hall a riot, in which religious fanatics and policemen were participants and during which a hundred shots were fired, yesterday afternoon resulted in the death of Patrolman A. O. Dalbow and Lola Pratt, aged 18 years, probably fatal injuries to three persons and slight injuries to two others.

Among those probably fatally injured is John Sharp, known as "Adam God," a street preacher. The trouble occurred while the streets were crowded with people. While the fight was in progress the participants reversed the entire block.

Probation Officer Holt, of the Juvenile Court, yesterday went to Fifth and Main streets to investigate a case of alleged abduction. Near that corner he met John Sharp, known as "Adam God," who was exhorting a crowd. When Sharp saw A. J. Seizer, a woman and five children. Holt did not like the manner in which the woman attempted to get money contributions from the crowd, and he declared that she and her male companions were not proper persons to have the custody of young children.

The woman announced that she and "Adam God" would conduct services at the Poor Man's Mission last night whereupon she and her companions started toward the mission. Officer Holt then inquired as to the identity of the children. The woman immediately assumed a tone of resentment and replied that the officer "had better attend to his own business."

The officer persevered in his inquiries and "Adam God," who was a long white beard and hair, threatened the officer with physical violence. Officer Holt was not armed, but stood his ground until "Adam God" struck him a heavy blow behind the ear with a pistol, making an ugly wound. Holt then started for the police station for assistance. As Holt moved away the preacher tried to shoot him but the cartridge failed to explode.

Officer Holt rushed into the police station and announced that a band of religious fanatics, armed to the teeth, were at the threshold of the police station and he warned the officers to prepare for trouble. The police sergeant in charge ordered Patrolmen Charles Dalbow and Harry E. Stege to arrest Sharp and his followers.

Sharp and his companions were within 50 yards of the police station when the officers stepped into the street. The Sharpists gave evidence of frenzy and with profane abuse they served notice on all that they would preach right "under the eaves of the police station and the police cannot prevent us." The officers did not, however, expect serious trouble and were not prepared for the volley of bullets which met them almost immediately after they appeared on the scene. Dalbow was killed instantly and a bullet passed through Stege's arm. Other officers, hearing the general fight ceased Lieutenant Clark, who had come into the street unarmed, was shot in the eye, and Patrolman Mullane was shot in the back as he hurried into the police station for reinforcements.

In the meantime a riot call brought policemen from all directions. Thoroughly aroused, the officers closed in on Sharp and his followers, firing as they went. When the firing ceased "Adam God" lay fatally wounded, shot through the head and body.

The woman and the children fled to a houseboat in which they lived on the Missouri river. Fifty policemen followed them and found that the woman had acceded herself in the houseboat. Standing on the boat with a shotgun, he shouted to the officers:

"Come on, you fiends." The boat was only a few feet from the bank of the river and several officers dashed toward it. The woman dropped her weapon and, seized two of the children, she sprang into a rowboat and began to row out the middle of the river. The officers called to her to stop, but she only pulled the oars more vigorously. The policemen fired a volley at the rowboat. One shot struck Lola Pratt, tearing away the greater part of the child's face. She cannot live, it is said. The woman then surrendered. At the police station she said she was Mrs. Pratt, wife of the companion of "Adam God," and mother of the wounded child.

James S. Sharp, styling himself "Eliza," at the head of a party of religious fanatics calling themselves "Holy Rollers," first appeared in Oklahoma City in March, 1905. Sharp, his wife, and a young man of the name of Green, and a boy, said to have been Sharp's son, all aside, headed a procession one cold day in March, 1905, and attempted to parade the town. They were arrested, but allowed to leave the city. They went to the country southeast of Oklahoma City and camped until late in the summer following. Then they became so obnoxious to the farmers that they were again arrested. A second time they were let off with a promise to leave the territory, which they did, going to Colorado. Getting into similar trouble here, they traveled up the Pacific coast and finally reached California last summer.
